STUDIA DOCTORALIA

PSYCHOLOGY AND EDUCATIONAL SCIENCE

UNIVERSITY OF BUCHAREST
— VIRTUTE ET SAPIENTIA —

EDITORIAL

FROM THE EXECUTIVE EDITOR

To the Editorial Team and collaborators: Thank You

I am honored to be responsible for the first editorial I am signing as the Executive Editor of Studia Doctoralia (SD). I will start by thanking the head of the Doctoral School of the Faculty of Psychology and Educational Sciences, Dragoș Iliescu, as well as the entire management committee for their trust. Coordinating this journal was certainly not an easy task, but I am confident that, together with the team, we will achieve our main objectives. In the same line of thought, I would also like to express my gratitude to the founders of the journal and its previous administrative team. I am also thrilled about working with those colleagues who are committed to walk with me on this journey. So, in no particular order, I would like to thank Cristian Dan Opariuc for his contribution, especially with the construction of our new virtual home (www.studiadoctoralia.ro), Alexandru-Filip Popovici, who is responsible for updating information on the website, uploading the archive, etc., Alina Chiracu, who is involved in copy-editing the articles, Denisa Berceanu who has the difficult task of promoting the journal and translating it into a language that is accessible to the entire community. I would also like to collectively thank both the board of directors, and the editorial boards (<https://www.studiadoctoralia.ro/index.php/sdpsych/about/editorialTeam>) and, of course, our reviewers who, although less publicly visible, significantly contribute to the quality of the articles.

Everyone mentioned previously is in one form or another an official member of the journal. However, we also received support from other external collaborators: Ruxandra Besciu, responsible for our new graphic image (e.g., journal cover, banner and other visual materials), Andrei Șerban Zănefirescu for the internal graphics of the journal, as well as other volunteer students who have contributed in various administrative issues: Bogdan Oprea, George Bunesu, Andrei Cosmin Dumbravă, Alexandru Andrei Sirbu, Andreea Corbeanu, Vasile Nicu, Vlad Ursu, Simona Ispas.

Of course, I would also like to acknowledge the authors without whom the journal's progress could not exist. We thank all our students, as well as our graduates and other collaborators who have responded positively and promptly to the call for contributions and have submitted manuscripts worthy of being considered and being published according to our new standards.

We are therefore a growing team, eager to attract international collaborators in the future, both as authors, as Associate Editors, reviewers or why not, members of the Editorial Advisory Board.

We would also like to make a call for contributions that would strengthen our collaborations and contributions to the journal with more representatives in the field of Educational Sciences. The representatives of this field have played a crucial role and, in the tradition of this journal, we want to preserve this contribution by continuing to balance contributions on topics in Psychology with those on topics in Educational Sciences.

Finally, I would like to add a personal thank you to someone very dear to me, who took me under her wing as then editor-in-chief of the Journal "Psychology of Human Resources" (PRU), namely, to Prof Delia Virgă, head of the Department of Psychology of the West University of Timișoara. Delia has shown me years ago the right steps for editing a scientific journal, for which I thank her, as well as the whole PRU committee, for the experience gained throughout more than 7 years as an assistant editor.

I could add a lot of thoughts regarding the future of our journal, but I would prefer this first editorial to be praised as a tribute to all contributors.

Andreea Butucescu
(andreea.butucescu@studiadoctoralia.ro).